Many Things You Might Not Ever Learn If You Didn't Open Your Morning Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Oysters grow on trees in swampy areas of Florida. The busy bivalves attach themselves to submerged mangrove roots, and thrive there.

One of the best places to sleep in the afternoon is Greece. The siesta habit there is so widespread that even the radio stations shut down between 2 and 5 p.m.

American industry is expected to invest a record $43 billion in new plants and equipment in 1964, up $16 billion from 1954.

The average American home is held together by 40,000 nails, an unpaid mortgage and the determined will of a wife.

Quotable notables: "Middle age is the time when you'll do anything to feel better, except give up what's ailing you." — Robert Quillen.

It has been estimated that an American businessman during the course of his lifetime spends about 8,760 hours on a whole year — on the telephone.

If the old have their problems, so do the young. People under 25 represent only about one-fifth of the U.S. labor force—but a full one-third of the unemployed.

When you see a cat or dog eating grass, you can expect rain soon. Dream of clear water and you'll have good luck; dream of muddy water and you're in for trouble. A girl who cuts slices of bread extra thick will turn out to be a good stepmother.

Smart people have the largest part of their head in front of their ears; if most of your head is behind your ears you are a candidate for a dunce cap.

Mrs. William Howard Taft was the first wife of a U.S. president to ride at her husband's side during an inaugural observance. "Don't lose faith in him since he became a custom."

It was Elbert Hubbard who observed, "Don't lose faith in humanity. Think of all the people in the United States who have never played you a single nasty trick."

Republicans to Handle Petitions

The Hempstead County Republican women will circulate petitions to secure signatures of those favorable to placing a permanent voter registration system on the 1964 general election ballot. This is not a partisan movement by the Republican party, but a statewide effort by citizens of both parties and independents. The Hempstead County Republican women are the only organized women's political group in the County. Therefore they were approached to circulate these petitions.

Woman Dies From Bullet Wound Here

Mrs. Algie Aaron, about 50, died yesterday in a Little Rock hospital of a gunshot wound in her left temple.

City Police Chief A.S. Willis gave this report. The woman's husband and his brother, O'Dell Aaron were in a cafe which they operate on North Hazel. They told officers Mrs. Aaron went into a bedroom. They heard a shot and found her lying across the bed critically wounded.

She was taken to a local hospital for treatment and later taken to a Little Rock hospital where she died. Chief Willis said an autopsy is being performed at Little Rock. The investigation continues.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Oakcrest Funeral Home.

Businessmen Escape From Plane Crash

MEMPHIS (AP) — Two Arkansas businessmen escaped virtually unscathed when their plane crashed after taking off from private plane crash landed into Memphis Metropolitan Airport Sunday.

The pilot, William T. Martin, 41, bounced the twin engine Beechcraft off a road and into a field when both engines failed as the plane was 10 feet off the ground and more than halfway down the runway.

Danshy Council, 50, president of Council Manufacturing Co. of Fort Smith, Ark., suffered a cut in his nose as he was leaving the plane after the crash. Martin was unhurt. The plane suffered $60,000 damage.

Inventors Congress Is Discussed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Plans for an Arkansas Inventors Congress and Space Symposium at Barton Coliseum Oct. 30-31 and Nov. 1 were announced Saturday at the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission. More than 200 displays by Arkansas inventors will be presented for public inspection.

Bois d' Arc Lake Formally Dedicated

Governor Orval E. Faubus and nearly 1,000 others were on hand Saturday and formally dedicated the Bois d' Arc Lake and recreation area. The crowd was held down by bad weather with about an inch of rain falling during the morning.

The governor started his talk with a Memorial Day message and ended by talking about Arkansas' accomplishments under his administration which included Bois d' Arc.

"This lake and many other lakes draw tourists each year to Arkansas. The people buy fishing license, gas, food and other supplies which in turn helps the economy of our state."

The governor cited the growth of Arkansas' road system during the past nine years and said his objective is to see all farm to market roads blacktopped.

Work began on the lake in 1956 and it has been a top duck hunting area for the past two years. Fishing is good now and is expected to reach a peak this year. The lake covers 600 acres and the duck area more than 2,000.

The Hempstead County Wildlife Association worked closely with the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission on the project and sponsored the dedication ceremony.

The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission constructed a two and a half mile dam on Bois d' Arc creek with five flood gates at a cost of $250,000. Special guests present included Congressman Oren Harris, State Secretary Kelly Bryant, R.C. McBrayer, Nelson Cox, Dorsey McRae, Bill Apple, Raymond Farris, Jim Eubanks and State Senator Olin Hendrix who introduced the Governor Rep. Talbot Field, Jr., was master of ceremonies.

Winners of the fishing contest were Joe Bozart of Hope, a 12-ounce bream, Howell Baker of Emmet, a one and three-quarter pound crappie and Harold Mitchell of Lewisville with a five-pound, two ounce bass. Raymond Collins of Hope won a boat.

Negro Youth Held for Burglary

City Police picked up a 12-year-old boy yesterday who admitted to breaking and entering Garrett & Son Feed Store and taking about $5. He also admitted to trying to break into Oliver Mills place but failed to gain entrance.

The young Negro has been in trouble several times. Police said, indicating he will go before the juvenile judge this week.

Demolay Chapters Are Confirmed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The national headquarters of Demolay announced Saturday that chapters at Jonesboro and Fort Smith have been cited for having the most outstanding observances during International Demolay Week March 15-22.

The two Arkansas chapters will receive plaques from the Demolay International Supreme Council.

It was the first time in the five-year history of the observance that two chapters have tied for first place. The Counciling, Ark., chapter placed 15th.

Climatic Month in Rights Fight Is Inevitable

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate enters today what most of its members expect will be the climatic month of the historic 1964 civil rights debate.

Today's session, the 67th on the House-passed civil rights bill, was expected to be low-key, however, because senators are straggling back to the Capitol after a three-day Memorial Day recess.

Starting Tuesday Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has promised sessions opening three hours earlier than usual in a drive to step up the pace of the debate.

Mansfield has said that the Senate can vote on cloture, its debate - limiting procedure, by June 10. This would mean filing of a cloture petition a week from today. A vote must come on the second day after the petition is filed.

If the two-thirds vote needed to invoke cloture and all the Southern talkathon is available, the bill is expected to be passed soon afterward. The Southerners fighting the measure concede there are ample votes to put it through once debate has been choked off.

Under cloture each senator is limited to one hour of speech time on all issues. However, he could offer any number of amendments. More than 240 now have been introduced.

Cloture has been invoked by the Senate only five times in its history, never on civil rights.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen agrees that the time has come for action but says the cloture vote may have to be deferred until the third week of this month.

Dirksen said "we expect to get the votes to close the debate" when the test comes.

The leaders are relying heavily on a package of amendments they introduced last week to pick up the final votes.

Over the weekend, supporters of cloture picked up two more votes bringing to 58 the number of senators who have told The Associated Press they would back cloture. Another 26 are listed as firmly opposed to it. If all 100 senators are present and vote, 67 will be required to limit debate.

Top Level Talks on Asia; Laos Seems Folding

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

HONOLULU (AP)—Top U.S. strategists opened secret talks on Communist-plagued Southeast Asia today as the shaky coalition government of Laos appeared to be falling apart.

The virtual pullout of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao from a patched-up coalition with Lao neutralists and rightists deepened the crisis atmosphere surrounding the talks.

Just about every key American official concerned with Southeast Asia was present for the two-day conference behind closed doors at Pacific Command headquarters overlooking Pearl Harbor.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge flew in from Saigon Sunday and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara arrived from Washington twelve hours later.

McNamara called the meeting "particularly timely" in view of increases in tempo and intensity of communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

He charged that Communist North Viet Nam is directing attacks in both Laos and South Viet Nam.

Lodge declared the situation in South Viet Nam is certainly not hopeless.

The officials arranged to begin a day-long session nearly this morning.

The final decision maker—President Johnson—waited in Washington for recommendations that could lead to military pressures against Communist North Viet Nam, source of much of the trouble in Laos and South Viet Nam.

Any decision involving military moves would mark a significant shift in U.S. policy, which so far has avoided such action against North Viet Nam.

It was understood that U.S. officials have been considering seriously a variety of possible pressures, ranging from demonstrations of strength outside North Viet Nam to more direct Continued on Page Two

Memorial Day Deaths Over 400

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths during the Memorial Day weekend—more than 400—hit a record high for a three-day observance of the holiday.

The death toll on the highways from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday was 415. Belated reports were expected to boost the final figure.

The record toll for the first holiday weekend of the spring topped the previous high mark of 371 set over the Memorial Day period in 1958. The National Safety Council had made a preliminary estimate that between 410 and 490 persons might be killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour period.

The heaviest toll was Sunday as millions of motorists jammed highways headed for home after outings. Reports indicate nearly 150 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the final 24 hours of the holiday period.

Traffic fatalities during the holiday period compared to 418 traffic deaths during a nonholiday weekend of 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Thursday, May 14 to midnight Sunday, May 17. The Associated Press survey for nonholiday period also showed 23 deaths in boating accidents and 73 persons drowned, a total of 514. Boating deaths during the holiday period totaled 16 while 40 persons drowned.

The record high traffic death toll for any Memorial Day holiday period was 462 in a four-day observance in 1961. Last Memorial Day was a one-day observance and there were 159 deaths on the highways.

West Memphis to Vote on Bond

WEST MEMPHIS (AP)—Residents of West Memphis will vote June 10 on a $750,000 bond issue to finance a plant for the East St. Louis Casting Co. of East St. Louis, Ill. The firm plans to expand its metal casting facilities, employing about 100 persons to start in the new plant.

Electrical Co-ops Are Praised

AUGUSTA, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus praised electric cooperatives in Arkansas for the progress they have brought to the state Sunday when he delivered the principal address during groundbreaking ceremonies for a new electric generating station.

Faubus spoke at ceremonies symbolizing the start of construction on the $15.5 million Carl E. Bailey Electric Generating Station near here.

Construction on the 125,000-kilowatt plant is scheduled to begin day with completion expected by 1966. An estimated 1,000 persons were on hand as Faubus and Arkansas Electric Cooperative Corp. officials turned the first shovel of soil for the project.

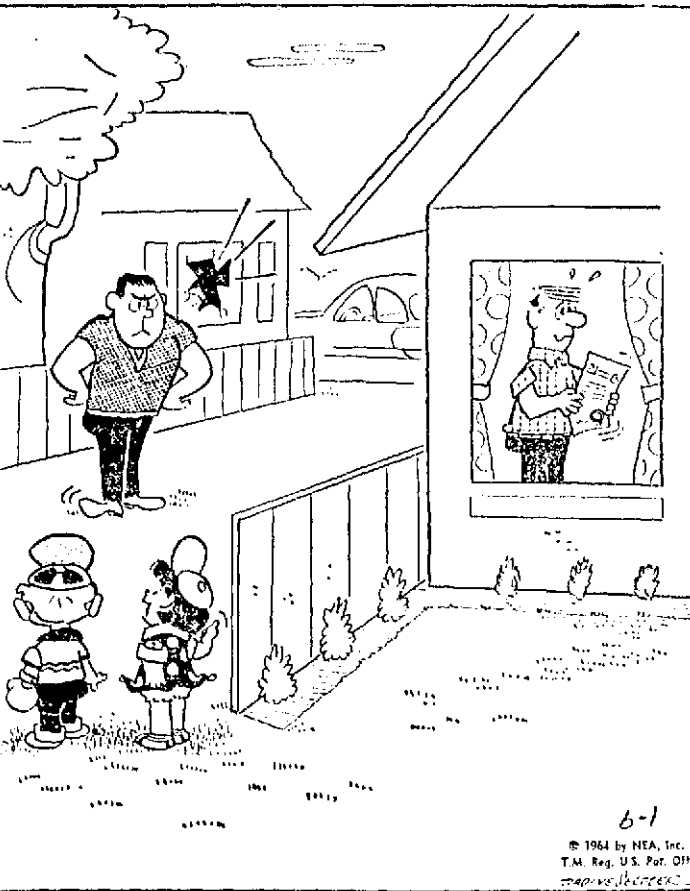

Faubus said that electric cooperatives once had been looked upon as "stepchildren," but he said the cooperatives had maintained a firm belief in the future of the state.

"We have a good people," Faubus said. "We are growing part to electric cooperative part to electric cooperative leaders."

The new plant is named for the late Carl E. Bailey, who was Arkansas governor when legislation first was enacted in Arkansas providing for the military moves as a guerrilla acener-offensive.

Official American quarters now tend to consider the problems of Laos and South Viet Nam in tandem—rather than separately—as targets of the same Communist threat facing all of Southeast Asia.

Since Pathet Lao forces in Laos began a spring push several weeks ago, there has been a noticeable hardening of U.S. official thinking on North Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam is supplying men, arms and equipment to insurgents in both Laos and South Viet Nam. Looming behind North Viet Nam is Communist China.

The United States has been trying to get across the point that it intends to stay in Southeast Asia—that it will never withdraw while nations there want its help.

It also has been trying, through the medium of official statements, to bring home to the North Vietnamese that they are asking for trouble by continuing to support Communist rebellions in neighboring countries.

Graduates Told to Be Spiritual

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Carey Cronis, chancellor of Rice University at Houston, urged 800 University of Arkansas graduates Saturday to take a lively interest in moral and spiritual problems.

Such problems, he said, have resisted solution for centuries. The speaker at the 90th Arkansas commencement ceremonies quoted Sen. Frank Graham, former North Carolina University president, as saying: "May our America be a place where democracy is achieved without vulgarity, difference without hate, where the majority is without tyranny and the minority without fear."

where respect for the past is not reaction and hope for the future is not revolution."

Cronis, a former UA instructor, said "You of the younger generation have it in your power to make Senator Graham's description entirely accurate."

he urged the graduates to make careful study before voting for leaders; and to realize that they are stepping out of school and into a friction-filled world.

"We profess surprise that nations cannot act in amity, and yet our own back yard problems were never further from solution," Cronis said.

The university also presented three former students with Distinguished Alumni Citations. They went to Sen. J. William Fulbright, D - Ark.; Dr. Benjamin R. Confield, senior professor of anatomy at Brooklyn College; and Marvin Melton, planter and businessman from Jonesboro.

Windup Near in California Vote Drive

By MORRIE LANESBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller directed final appeals to the voters today in an explosive windup to California's presidential primary.

Bitter charges of "smear" and "irresponsibility" between the rival camps sharpened the vital race for the state's 86 Republican national convention delegates in Tuesday's balloting.

Both sides, in traditional fashion, expressed confidence in the outcome of a battle which Rockefeller says will shape the future course of the Republican party.

The polls have lifted Rockefeller to frontrunner from the underdog rating he had before his surprise victory in Oregon. But the pulse-takers cushioned their figures with enough undecided voters to swing the election either way.

That was true, too, in the torrid clash between Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary, and State Controller Alan Cranston in a wholesale Democratic contest for the U.S. Senate nomination.

The primary, which started out as a ho-hum affair, is expected to bring out 65 per cent of the 7,122,724 registered voters. The total includes 4,022,302 Democrats, 2,895,448 Republicans.

The feverish tempo of the closing weeks matched the fighting over who is going to control the two parties in the state.

Rockefeller, who fled to New York just in time for the birth of a son Saturday, returns for a 12-hour series of airport rallies at 14 cities.

Goldwater flew to Washington for the graduation of his daughter Peggy, 19, from Mt. Vernon Junior College and to deliver the commencement address. He is due back tonight for an election-eve rally in Los Angeles.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel and former Sen. William F. Knowland, state managers for Rockefeller and Goldwater, broke the Sunday calm, however, in a nationally televised set-to on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Knowland charged "smear" against Rockefeller's assertions that the Arizona senator speaks only for the "extremist" element in the Republican party.

Kuchel, who like Knowland was a political protégé of former Gov. Earl Warren, declared Goldwater has altered his position several times on important issues and said his views don't represent "responsible Republicans."

Goldwater, in a statement issued by his Los Angeles headquarters, said that if he wins the nomination, he'll summon party leaders, including Rockefeller, to a "summit meeting" to map campaign strategy.

Rockefeller has attracted the support of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's followers, but he has said repeatedly he is not involved in any "stop Goldwater" movement or acting as a front man for their possible contenders.

The New York governor's forces have drawn fire—and denials—from the Goldwater faction with assertions that right-wingers are backing the senator in a systematic plan to take over control of the state GOP. Conservatives already control three of the volunteer party organizations.

A similar battle for party control backgrounds the Salinger-Cranston duel, except that here it's less a question of political philosophy than which Democratic clique will stay on top.

The Republican presidential and Democratic senatorial battles have almost obscured the fact that Democrats will decide a squabble for control of their 154-vote delegation to the Democratic National Convention in August.

Mayor Samuel W. Yorty of Los Angeles entered a rival slate to compete with the delegation headed by Gov. Brown. Both are uncommitted but their chairmen have pledged to support President Johnson at the Atlantic City gathering.

Bridge Group Meets

Mrs. J.C. Broyles had a few friends of her niece, Mrs. Horace Stokes of Little Rock in for bridge Thursday afternoon, May 28 at the Broyles home. At the conclusion of play the guest of honor was the high scorer. After cards, a salad plate and ice country were served.

Country Club Luncheon

For the Hope Country Club Ladies Bridge-Luncheon on Thursday, May 28 an eye-catching arrangement on the mantle was seen that consisted of a simulate beehive with bees, an apple tree, and a clover bed on styrofoam. Another tiny apple tree with blossoms made a charming effect elsewhere in the entertainment room. Salmon-colored glads centered the serving table where a tasty potluck luncheon was served to 14. These included Miss Diane Helms of Little Rock. Three tables of bridge were played in the afternoon. Mrs. Lester Godwin was high scorer, and Mrs. Byron Hefner won the game prize.

Hostesses for the afternoon entertainment were Mrs. E. M. McWilliams, Mrs. Monty Montis, and Mrs. George Wright.

Wedding Shower For Barbara Ann Wester

A miscellaneous wedding shower for Miss Barbara Ann Wester, bride-elect of Graydon Anthony, Jr., was given Friday night, May 29 at the WOW Hall by Mrs. Claud Self, Mrs. Merlin Cox, Mrs. Lee Parris, and Mrs. John Hatfield.

The honoree, who was attired in a white dress with a colored design throughout the material was presented a clever kitchen corgie. Her mother, Mrs. John Wester of Washington, and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Graydon Anthony of Hope, were each presented a corsage of salmon-colored glads.

"Queen for a Day" was enacted for Miss Wester with her many nice shower gifts being presented as part of the "show." After she had graciously accepted and opened them, the presents were displayed on a table decorated with Barbie and Ken dolls arranged as if for a wedding.

For refreshments the hostesses served cup cakes and punch to 35.

Doesn't Think LBJ Can Keep Promises

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—"Santa Claus dreams or rolled up sleeves," Sen. Barry Goldwater said last January. "We have to make a choice." He was criticizing President Johnson's anti-poverty program.

He accused Johnson of "Santa Claus promises" and in that same speech revealed perhaps as much about his own "rolled up sleeves" attitude toward life in America as anything he has ever said.

"We are told that many people lack skills and cannot find jobs because they did not have an education. That's like saying people have big feet because they wear big shoes."

"The fact is that most people who have no skill have had no education for the same reason—low intelligence or low ambition."

But this speech did more than criticize Johnson. It served to illustrate an essential point for the Arizona Republican. Just a few days before he had announced he would seek the Republican presidential nomination.

It had taken him some time to reach this decision, although for years he had been whipping up and down and across the landscape making speeches which endeared him to the Republican professionals.

As he declared last fall, over those years he had said a "thousand times I'm going to run for the Senate, nothing more." Now, by his decision, he was giving Republicans of all shades a choice.

Did the highly conservative Goldwater represent their thinking or did they want a more moderate or liberal candidate for president? Republican voters have since decided against him in a couple of presidential primary contests.

In New Hampshire he finished second behind Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, who didn't even say he wanted the nomination, and more recently in Oregon where he finished third behind New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Lodge.

Nevertheless, despite these defeats, Goldwater's years of work for the party had won him broad support from the professionals and he had accumulated a huge number of other states' delegates going to the nominating convention next month.

Yet, Tuesday's California primary contest between him and Rockefeller may be the turning point for Goldwater. If he loses, it could finish him. If he wins, his delegate strength going into the convention will look overwhelming.

But looks are not a certainty and Goldwater could still lose in the convention for this is an unusual situation for Republicans.

This is the first time since 1952 that they have had a chance to choose between a highly conservative candidate and a more moderate one. Then it was between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Taft lost.

Since Eisenhower ran again in 1956, and won, the Republicans didn't have to make any choices until 1960 when Vice President Richard M. Nixon got the nomination. There wasn't really any choice that year. Nixon had it sewed up.

Nixon, unlike Goldwater, was a moderate Republican. But so was his Democratic opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy. This made their contest for the presidency in 1960 not one of issues but of personality.

Although Kennedy won by squeak, by the time he died he had gained enormous public approval, which raises a question apt to get overlooked: would the country be ready to switch so soon to someone so vastly conservative as Goldwater?

Johnson, certain to be the Democratic candidate, doesn't think so. He not only has identified himself with Kennedy's programs but has sought to outdo him in the Kennedy-kind of pep talk about the future.

One thing is sure: a Goldwater-Johnson contest would give the country its clearest choice between the conservative and liberal attitudes it has had in more than a generation.

"DEAR ABBY"

SPEAK UP, MAN!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: I have been married for six years and have never suspected my wife of anything. While searching for a match I looked in her coat pocket and came across a letter (addressed to her mother's house). I became curious and read the following:

"It was so good to hear your voice again, Darling. I am glad you still feel the same about me. As long as you can't love your husband, how long will it take you to get a divorce?"

I have not told her I read the letter. I was so hurt I just froze. The letter was signed with an initial which meant nothing to me. Where do I go from here? P.S. Yes, we have children.

Dear Sick: Go to your wife and tell her you read the letter. The next move is hers.

Dear Abby: My husband and I are nearing 50. My father, who is 80, lives with us. We let him know that our home is his home, and when we entertain he is made to feel as welcome as any guest. Here is my problem, and please don't think I am terrible. My husband and I never have any time alone. If we go to the kitchen for coffee, Papa parks himself right there. Sometimes my husband and I want to discuss something in private, but it has to wait because of Papa. How does a girl go about telling her own father that she would like a few minutes alone with her husband once in a while? Papa is of sound mind, and in good health for his age. He has been with us for 16 years, although he has other children he could have lived with. This is the first time I have considered mentioning something to him about this. Should I?

ALL CHOKED UP
Dear Choked: Yes. A little privacy is better than none. Your papa may be unaware of his intrusion. First, see that he has a comfortable and attractive retreat of his own. Then break your "problem" to him gently and with good humor. If he is of "sound mind" he won't resent it. If he does, your problem is bigger than you know. And you could face years of unnecessary unpleasantness and tension.

Dear Abby: This is for BUSY MOTHER, whose children answer the phone, "Who is this?" My son is a lawyer and he has four children ranging from five to eleven years of age. He once overheard his daughter answer the phone, "Nobody is home. Goodbye." My son was furious. He lined them all up and taught them to say, "This is the Joseph residence. Linda speaking." Why can't other parents do this?

GRANDMOTHER M.
Dear Grandmother: They can. And they probably would if they ever caught their youngsters answering the telephone the

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — When

"More, More, More . . ." an original comedy started on NBC Sunday night, it seemed for the first few minutes we were going to see one of those mad, gay shows reminiscent of the good old movie days when Robert Montgomery was always a rich playboy or debonair Cary Grant was pursuing Irene Dunne or Katharine Hepburn.

It started with a poor but happy young couple just making out on $6,000 a year, worrying over bills and a leaky coffee pot. Suddenly they have a $500,000 windfall and the husband sets out to really enjoy spending his money.

So far, so good. But the spending device was overdone and got out of hand. The rest of the show was less comedy than a burlesque.

Our hero started buying a Rembrandt "with a little Van Gogh on the side to brighten it up," an apartment house and a pair of English limousines for his girl friend, a baby elephant and every dress in Christian Dior's collection for his wife.

Then his wife got into the act, acquiring a prize fighter, a night club, a bank, one sable and 15 milk cats.

The clincher and big gag was when she asked her husband how many golf clubs made a set. Fourteen, he replied.

Then in a voice like Jane's in the "Easy Aces" she said "Goody, then I think I'll buy those in Connecticut."

That golf club-buying joke is just a little bolder than Milton Berle and started life as an early Texas millionaire story.

The whole show was a bit of misguided bluff, and very hard to wind up.

Network television's passionate preoccupation with the California primary election Tuesday is beginning to have a strange effect on some East Coast viewers—3,000 miles from the action.

The networks seems to be giving the democratic senatorial contest, with local issues and political implications, almost as much attention as they are awarding the pitched battle for the 86 delegates to the Republican national convention.

Perhaps it is their way of giving equal time to the two major parties at a time when there is not much of a democratic contest for the presidential nomination. Or maybe it is road work for their news staffs to get them training for the campaigns and election in November.

Battle for Power Is on in India

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—

The battle to succeed the late Prime Minister Nehru appeared today to be swinging heavily in favor of Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio. But Shastri's leading challenger refused to give up.

Former Finance Minister Morarji Desai, the No. 2 candidate, said a report that he had withdrawn was "all propaganda from the other side."

It appeared, however, that ranking members of the ruling Congress party were lining up behind Shastri and that he would be elected by acclamation at a party meeting Tuesday.

Party leaders asked party President Kumaraswami Kamaraj to poll leading members and advise which candidate should be elected. He was reported finding a Shastri boom.

Kamaraj said which candidate of how things shaped up by Tuesday. He said he would meet 300 Congress officials, including Desai, and should have a good idea of how things shaped up by tonight.

The usually well-informed Times of India reported "the field is now clear for the unanimous election" of Shastri.

Desai also said Kamaraj probably will advise the party to elect Shastri.

Nehru refused to nominate his successor before he died Wednesday, saying it would be undemocratic.

He apparently expected his political heirs to thrash out the issue in a public meeting. But the party high command, fearful that a fight would split the mail. The mail a letter returning his $1,500 gubernatorial filing fee.

Even if Ridgeway is successful in getting Reed's ruling overturned, he faces another obstacle before he can yet his name back on the ballot.

Bennett held in a second ruling that Ridgeway is not a qualified voter under Arkansas law and cannot be a candidate for that reason, even if he were not an ex-convict.

Bennett made this ruling after he was told by Catlett that Ridgeway was qualified voter in Virginia. Ridgeway maintains he is an Arkansas resident because he has paid taxes including the poll tax, at Newport.

Marauder Bands Bring N.Y. Terror

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—Bands of teen-aged Negro marauders, raiding subway trains and a ferry boat, brought terror to normally quiet sections of Brooklyn and lower Manhattan over the weekend.

Early Sunday 20 youths stormed aboard a subway train en route from Coney Island in Brooklyn and terrorized and robbed passengers.

The youths, many of them reeking with alcohol, left the train at Kings Highway, Brooklyn, after smashing windows and light bulbs.

They ran to the street, smashed the window of a beauty parlor and stole about $90 from the cash register.

Residents of the district, which is predominantly white, reacted with anger and a street clash was narrowly averted.

About 40 persons poured out of homes and a bar and began "passing remarks," said detective Raymond Sheerin.

Sheerin continued: "They wanted to do something. It was like they were trying to say to us, 'Let us have them for a little while' or something to that effect."

Sheerin was among officers in 11 cars which sped to the area. Twelve of the youths were arrested.

Less than two hours earlier, two men and two youths cowed the motorman aboard a subway train near Prospect Park in Brooklyn. They threatened the motorman with a meat cleaver.

Police said the four got off at Prospect Park, boarded another train, and threatened passengers with the cleaver. One passenger Clifford Renaus, 24, pulled the emergency cord as the train rolled into a station.

He ran from the car and called police from the cashier's booth. Police got there in time to grab the four.

Sunday night, five Negro teenagers attacked a white youth on a train in lower Manhattan, beating him and knifing him in the shoulder. All five teenagers were arrested.

On Saturday night about 25 youths went wild on a ferry en route from Staten Island to Manhattan. Shouting, dancing and terrorizing passengers, they swept food and drinks off the refreshment counter, stole candy and took $90 from the cash register.

Friday night, a white school teacher, Miss Charlotte Lipsik, 38, was raped and killed in the Crown Heights section of Brooklyn. A group of ultra-orthodox Hasidic Jews have formed a private radio-car police patrol in that area in an effort to curb nighttime terrorism.

Members of the association have signed an agreement stating they will not allow Army Engineers on their property without a court order.

The agreement was read at the rally where demonstrators had meals which were prepared from seven barbecued hogs and 300 fried chickens.

Dalton is located in Randolph County about seven miles south of the Missouri state line.

Finalists in Poultry Contest

E LORADO, Ark. (AP) —

Four finalists, two from Magnolia, were named here Saturday to compete in the Arkansas Poultry Princess contest June 19-20 at Little Rock.

The girls were selected in the south Arkansas District Poultry Princess contest. They will compete for the title now held by Cheryl Becktelheimer of Camden.

Those selected were Annabelle McNeill and Charlotte Ann Williams of Magnolia, Charlotte Carol Byrd of Gordon and Linda Sue Ray of Dermott.

District finalists also were named for the chicken cooking contest. They were Mrs. J. H. Spooner of Junction City, Mrs. John Pope of El Dorado and Mrs. J. B. Morgan and Mrs. Ganks Dawson of Elson.

They also will compete for the state title in the contest at Little Rock.

Against the Construction of River Dam

DALTON, Ark. (AP)—An estimated 1,000 persons, wearing straw hats and bonnets and carrying axes and pitchforks, demonstrated here Saturday in protest against a proposed dam across the Eleven Point River near here.

The demonstrators, members of the Upper Eleven Point River Association, rode on pickup trucks, tractors and even a survey with a fringe on the top.

The rally was the largest ever staged in protest against the dam, which first was authorized in 1930.

Mrs. Helen Bly of Pocahtontas, secretary of the association, said such a demonstration should have been carried out at the time the project was approved.

"We probably wouldn't have any trouble, now," she said. "We were too polite then."

Eight public hearings on the project have been held by Army Engineers since its approval.

A supporters of the dam say it will provide flood control, electric power generation and recreation. Opponents contend its only benefit will be recreational.

Mrs. Bly said a steam generation electric plant could provide 10 times more power at one-tenth of the cost of the dam. The dam could not supply power for more than one town of 10,000 persons, she said.

Anti-dam forces also contend losses to homes, land and businesses would exceed $28 million if the project is carried out.

Members of the association have signed an agreement stating they will not allow Army Engineers on their property without a court order.

The agreement was read at the rally where demonstrators had meals which were prepared from seven barbecued hogs and 300 fried chickens.

Chicago Wins Doubleheader From Detroit

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Buford, Chicago's pre-season candidate for American League rookie-of-the-year honors, has been carrying Pete Ward's glove—and little else—since Ward's recent return to slugging form.

But Buford, whose batting average to date barely exceeds Ward's, has been fighting a losing battle against American League pitchers. The little infielder, used primarily as a late-inning replacement for the hot-handed Ward recently, carried a .191 average out of Sunday's doubleheader.

Little Rock Man Wins Tournament

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Ted Harris of North Little Rock sank a 26-foot birdie putt on the 22nd hole Sunday to win the Buick Golf tournament at Jonesboro Country Club.

Harris came from behind to get a 1-up victory over J. W. Buzick of Monette in the sudden death playoff.

Buzick led 5-4 up at the 13th hole before Harris began a comeback which gave him a tie on the 18th hole and led to the victory. Both players parred 19, 20 and 21.

It was Harris' first time to enter a tournament which was named for Buzick's father in 1963. The victory gave Harris his second victory in tournament play in two weeks. He won last week at Hot Springs.

early in the game, had pulled ahead in the eighth on Bill Skowron's 10th homer.

Homers by Leon Wagner, his second of the afternoon, and Woody Held and a three-run double by Joe Azcue triggered the Indians' second-game rout.

Barber, a 20-game winner last season who had been plagued with a bad back this year, pitched a three-hitter through seven innings, before giving way to Stu Miller, and picked up his first victory.

Causey's seventh inning blast off Yankee reliever Hal Reniff, came with two outs and the A's behind 2-1. Both New York runs came in the top of the inning on a two-out pinch single by Mickey Mantle.

The Red Sox snapped a 3-3 tie and their three-game losing streak when Frank Malzone led off the ninth with his second single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Mantle's clutch hit.

Travelers in a Split With Tacoma Boys

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The Arkansas travelers split a Pacific Coast League doubleheader with Tacoma Sunday, winning the first game 11-6 and losing the nightcap 2-1.

Arkansas allowed Tacoma a four-run lead in the first game before rallying in the top of the second inning for five runs on six hits, including a home run by Bill Sorrell.

Arkansas went ahead permanently in the top of the fifth when three more Arkansas came in on a double by Costen Shockley, a triple by Alex Johnson who scored on a wild pitch, and a home run by Howie Goss.

Arkansas added insurance runs in the seventh with a double by Wayne Graham and a homer by Shockley.

In the second game pitchers Gary Kroll of Arkansas and Ted Sadowski of Tacoma battled through six scoreless innings before Kroll honored for the only Arkansas run.

Tacoma tied it on a double and a single in the bottom of the seventh then went ahead in the eighth on a single, a walk and another angle.

First Game
Arkansas	0-1 0-2 0-1 11 3 0
Tacoma	0-2 0-0 0-0 6 7 1

Giants Finally Win in the 23rd Inning

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

When Gaylord and Galen gave their show an out-of-town tryout, they never realized it would be so well received once it hit Broadway that they would have to extend their performance.

The players — pitchers Gaylord Perry and Galen Cisco — and their teammates — the San Francisco Giants and the New York Mets — did just that Sunday as they waded through 23 innings in the longest game in major league history from the standpoint of time.

The Giants and the Mets did not exactly play on Broadway but a few miles away at Shea Stadium. The Giants won the seven-hour-and-23-minute production 6-6. The victory came after they had taken a mere 2-29 to win the opener of the doubleheader 5-3.

Just 15 days before, in San Francisco, the same teams played 15 innings with the Giants winning 6-4. Perry was the winner in that one and Cisco the loser.

The right-handed hurlers performed in the same roles Sunday. Perry, who pitched only one inning in the earlier game, went 10 innings this time. Cisco, who lasted 12-3 innings May 16, made it through nine innings.

The game took more time than it would to sit through Hamlet twice. The New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers previously had played the longest game—seven hours even—June 21, 1962. And only three games went more innings than Sunday's.

Cisco—who really couldn't be blamed if, like Hamlet, he started seeing ghosts — limited the Giants to two hits in eight innings before Jim Davenport tripled with two out in the 23rd. Pinch hitter Del Crandall drove Davenport home with a ground-rule double after Cap Peterson was walked purposely. Jesus Alou brought Peterson home with an infield single.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago nipped Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings. Philadelphia stopped Houston 4-1. Los Angeles got by Pittsburgh 6-4 and St. Louis edged Cincinnati 2-1 after losing 6-0.

In the American League, Chicago swept Detroit 5-3 and 8-3. Cleveland took Washington twice 9-6 and 8-3. Baltimore nipped Los Angeles 2-1. Boston edged Minnesota 4-3 and Kansas City beat New York 4-2.

A crowd of 57,037, largest in the majors this season, saw the Mets pull a triple play in the 14th inning and Giants' Manager Al Danks ejected in the 15th. The fans also saw the Mets' Joe Christopher play the role of the villain with his three-run homer in the seventh that sent the game into extra innings.

Orlando Ceped stole home with the deciding run in the opener. Juan Marichal won his eighth game in nine decisions. Billy Williams cracked his 13th home run in the 10th inning for the Cubs' triumph. Billy Cowan's run-scoring single tied the game for the Cubs in the ninth. Williams, getting three hits, increased his league-leading average to .414.

Art Mahaffey walked seven Colts, but Richie Allen and Rubeen Amaro backed him with two-run homers as the Phillies remained in first place.

Sandy Koufax won his fifth game against four defeats, but he needed the aid of Pittsburgh errors and reliever Ron Permoski. Two of the Dodgers' runs in the four-run third scored with the help of the miscreants. Tommy Davis singled home Jim Gilliam with the tie-breaking run in the eighth.

Bob Gibson ignited a two-run Cardinals' rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap with a single, then held off a Reds' outburst in the ninth for his fifth triumph against one loss. Dick Groat's sacrifice fly and Ken Boyer's single sent St. Louis' runs off John Tsitouris, who until the eighth had given up just five hits.

Bob Purkey scattered six hits in the opener. The Reds shelled Ray Washburn from the mound with four runs in the first inning.

Opportunity Week for the 'Dancer'

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the week that determines whether Northern Dancer joins racing's select group of Triple Crown winners or is just another 3-year-old colt who won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but failed in the Belmont Stakes.

The grueling 1½-mile Belmont is on tap Saturday at Aqueduct and some 60,000 are expected to be on hand to see for themselves whether the Canadian-bred and owned colt can again beat Hill Rise and become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation in 1948.

A nation-wide television and radio audience also will be watching and listening when the band plays "The Sidewalks of New York" at time for the post parade at 3:40 p.m., EST.

The 96th Belmont, a $125,000-added race, overshadows Kelson's appearance in the $100,000 California at Hollywood Park as well as the Swaps Handicap at Arlington Park, the Kent and Polly Drummond at Delaware Park and The Tyro at Monmouth Park.

Northern Dancer, who will again be ridden by the controversial Willie Hartack, will be favored over the California colt, Hill Rise, with Willie Shoemaker in the irons once more.

Non-Seniors Get Villanova Win

By BOB GREEN

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — That big sigh you heard? It's from the Eastern track coaches, not so much over Villanova's fifth straight ICAA track and field championship but the manner in which it was accomplished.

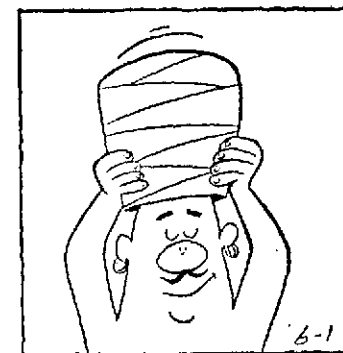

The Wildcats got enough points from non-seniors to win including nine from sophomore sprinter Earl Horner, a firm indicating that Junior Elliott's Main Liners plan to continue their dynasty.

Viv Zvolak and Rolando Cruz were the standouts in the 80th edition of them eat Saturday, but were the only senior contributors to the 45 points that won, as expected, the Wildcats' seventh title in eight years.

Non-seniors got 30, enough to win against second place Harvard's 26½. Morgan State had

Milwaukee Next Big Auto Race

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The USAC racing fraternity began moving its cars and equipment to Milwaukee today for the 100-miler there next Sunday, enriched by the biggest purse ever paid for the Indianapolis 500 but impoverished by the loss of two outstanding drivers in the 48th Memorial Day grind.

Charging A.J. Foyt Jr. and his Old Betsy Offenhauser got the lion's share of $153,650 from the $506,025 total.

The first closed circuit telecast of the Memorial Day event showed veteran Eddie Sachs plowing into the side of rookie Dave MacDonald's ultra-light car and causing a gasoline explosion that killed them both.

The remarkable live television show contributed nothing to the purse, which was only $12,950 more than last year, when Parnelli Jones picked up the previous record winner's share.

Anton (Tony) Hulman Jr., Indianapolis Motor Speedway owner, said the closed circuit TV "about broke even" financially but it was considered a success.

It should make a substantial contribution to the purse in the future, he added.

The crowd, probably a record last Saturday but not disclosed, was estimated from 260,000 up to an unlikely 350,000.

A large proportion of it saw the great ball of fire that erupted in the second lap near the upper end of the main straightaway. Many felt the heat and inhaled the smoke as five other cars piled into the inferno and were blasted from the race.

The race was halted and restarted for only the second time since the 500 was inaugurated in 1911. The other stop in 1926 was because of rain.

The hard-driving Foyt, three times USAC national champion and the 1961 Memorial Day winner, gunned his supposedly obsolescent front-engine Sherman-Thompson Special into first place on the 55th lap, after the more glamorous new equipment had washed out.

Rodger Ward, twice winner of the even, made the best showing with one of his new rear-engine Fords, taking the $56,925 second money. He had to make five pit stops three more than he planned and three more than Foyt needed.

Scott Jimmy Clark and teammate Dan Gurney, in the new Lotus-Fords, were the victims of imported tires that began

Player Had His Orders From His Son

By CARL C. CRAFT

Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "Daddy, shoot 65 and come home." That was the order Sunday from Mark Player, 3-year-old son of South African golfer Gary Player, in a trans-Atlantic phone call.

But for a pair of bogies, Gary would have followed orders to the number. He sank a birdie putt on the final hole for a 67 to win $12,000 and a vacation with his family as victor in the Speedway Open golf tourney.

Player, who said, "I intend to devote more time to my family," plans to return next week to Nassau in the Bahamas, where his wife and four children are living.

Player wore all white Sunday instead of his usual black costume. He explained, "I had to let my dry cleaning catch up with me, you know."

Player dropped an eight-inch putt for a birdie on the par-five 465-yard final hole to finish 11 under par for the four rounds and win by a single stroke.

The diminutive, 146-pound swinger said, "I don't know which is more nerve-racking—being a race driver or a golfer."

Asked whether he witnessed the Indianapolis 500-mile race Saturday, in which two drivers died in a flaming crash, Player replied softly:

"Unfortunately, yes."

It was his third tourney since he had his tonsils removed after the Masters in April.

The victory boosted his total earnings this season to $29,000 and placed him fourth on the money list behind Jack Nicklaus, who finished far back in the field Sunday; Arnold Palmer, who skipped the meet; and Billy Casper, tied for fifth.

Posts a 71 in the Babe Zaharias Tilt

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) —

Ruth Jessen posted rounds of 71 and 74 on Sunday's 36-hole golf wind-up and won the $8,500 Babe Zaharias Open with a 214 for the 54 holes.

It was Miss Jessen's first win of the woman's golf tour.

Her triumph here was a further indication that the gals of the tour are catching up with mighty Mickey Wright, who won 13 tournaments and $31,600 last year for all-time records, and started out this year by winning four of the first six tournaments which she played.

But Miss Rawls beat her out at Dallas and Sunday Miss third because of a disastrous Wright wound up in a tie for three-over-par 76 on the second 18 holes.

Miss Jessen, who vaulted into third place among the money-winners with her triumph here, sewed it up with a two-under-par 71 in the second round. She faltered to a closing 74 but was so far ahead she never was in any danger.

Miss Wright now leads the money winners with $9,710. Miss Rawls is second with $6,597.50 while Miss Jessen is third with $5,875.50.

U.S. Winning Chicken War With Market

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Writer

The U.S. poultry industry is winning the chicken war with the Common Market, says poultry expert M. H. Simmons of Silem Springs.

Simmons, general manager of Plus Poultry, Inc., and board chairman of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, says some Common Market countries are buying U.S. poultry again despite high tariffs.

Two of the best buyers he said, are West Germany and Italy. They would rather pay a 40 per cent tariff on U.S. poultry than handle substantial quantities of other imported meat.

Simmons said, "Our poultry is still one of the best buys they can get," he added.

"The new Common Market tariffs hurt us considerably in 1963," Simmons said. "They slowed up exports. But so far in 1964 we have gained back a sizable portion of exports."

Ed Harms, executive secretary of the Arkansas Poultry Federation, said exporting of poultry is up 38 per cent over last year, mostly due to the opening of new markets in South America and the Far East.

The Common Market tariff forced the poultry exporters to look elsewhere for chicken eaters. In Japan, they found that the people were consuming only one pound per person per year, compared with 31 pounds per person per year in the U.S.

Arkansas exports more poultry—$20 million worth a year—than any other state. It leads the nation in production of USDA graded poultry and is second to Georgia in broiler production.

Simmons said that when the Common Market countries saw the tariff coming, they stocked up, and are now running out. Most of the new exports—in spite of the tariff—go to hotels and restaurants eventually, Simmons said. But those sold on the open market in European nations are not drastically increased in price.

"The tariff has done more to decrease the profit of the importer than to reduce the retail price," Simmons said. "It has created a lack of confidence in the European importer. He's afraid to spend too much money in the poultry business because he's afraid they'll come along with some other gimmick."

Simmons said he hoped negotiations going on in Geneva would provide the U.S. relief "in the way of lowering the import duty."

The tariff was put into effect

Train Derailed, 50 Are Hurt

ULMERS, S.C. (AP)—Twist-106 czzc yxx b16 egl

ULMERS, S.C. (AP)—Twisted steel and uprooted cross-ties were being removed today from a shallow ravine where Seaboard Air Line's Silver Meteor passenger train derailed.

Most of the 50 passengers hospitalized after the Saturday night wreck were released Sunday.

Officials expected to resume full operations along the main line today or Tuesday.

About 1,900 feet of track was uprooted when 16 of the train's 19 cars derailed.

J. L. Cooke, assistant general manager of Seaboard, said cause of the derailment has not been determined but sabotage has been ruled out.

The ravine, which helped contain the zig-zagging cars, is only a few hundred yards from a point where the tracks run atop a 50-foot embankment.

In July 1962 by the Common Market to give its member nations a chance to build up their own poultry industries, Simmons said it has not worked.

"The Common Market has violated its intent and original purpose in raising these tariffs," he said. "We hope to get a ruling (in Geneva) that they have broken international trade rules set down by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, to which some 60 nations subscribe."

The Institute of American Poultry Industries, of which Simmons is board chairman, has headquarters in Chicago. It is concerned with "selling more chickens to everybody," Simmons said. Simmons also is chairman of the International Trade Development Committee of the Arkansas Poultry Federation.

Simmons said one of the most important things to come out of the chicken war is the U.S. expansion of markets in order to maintain its exports.

Japan took 10 million pounds of U.S. poultry last year and will take 20 million pounds this year, Simmons said. Hong Kong and Singapore also are taking large amounts.

Poultry is a $302 million a year business in Arkansas. Some 60 million pounds a year are exported. "Business is up overall," Simmons said. "We'll more than make up the deficit created by increased tariffs."

Next I called the air lines and made a reservation on a flight to Washington leaving the next morning. Then I shaved, and stretched out on the bed.

It was a little after six when I awakened. I dressed slowly and went downstairs.

Finally I was late enough and I walked on up the avenue to the club. It was just about time for Lola Crane to go on.

I headed for my usual table, but I was met by the headwaiter before I reached it.

"Sorry, sir," he said. "All the tables are reserved."

"How do you know I don't have a reservation?"

"I remember you, sir. You've been here for several nights."

"I'm sure that you'd find that there was no room even if every table in the joint was empty. I'll sit at the bar."

"I'm not sure..." he began hesitatingly.

"I'm sure," I said pleasantly. "You can tell Nick Potti that if I don't get served I'll immediately get a lawyer and start suit against him on the grounds that my civil rights have been violated."

He scurried toward the back of the club. I glanced up at the glass mural on the back wall, knowing that Potti could see me, and waved. Then I went to the bar.

"I'll have a double on the rocks," I told the bartender. He also looked uncertain. But he went off and started to make the drink. I noticed that he was moving very slowly. It took him as long to get ice in the glass as it should have to make several drinks. Finally he must have gotten some sort of signal, for he speeded up and came over with my drink.

The small combo was already playing on the bandstand and about five minutes later Lola Crane came on. Her voice was just as spine-tingling as it had been the first night I heard her. I turned and beckoned the bartender.

"Would you get a message to Miss Crane for me?" I asked. "I'm sorry, sir, it's against the regulations of the club."

I took a five-dollar bill from my pocket and held it so he could see it.

That really put a strain on him. He looked at the bill and licked his lips then glanced at the glass mural. "I'm sorry—I can't," he said.

"All right, I'll take care of it myself." I left the five dollars on the bar and walked down to the bandstand. There was enough reflected light so that she could see me, and she soon did. When she had recognized me, I indicated the bar with a motion of my head. She winked at me and I walked back.

When she'd finished her last number she came over and perched on the stool next to me. "Why aren't you at your usual table?"

"I was told earlier by Nick Potti that I wasn't welcome in the club. I came anyway because it's my last night in Cleveland and I wanted to see you again. They said that all the tables were reserved, so I came to the bar."

The bartender was standing in front of us. "I'll have my usual, Joe," she said. She waited until he went away. "Why?"

"I think it started last night because of you. Now it's a bit more complicated, but you're still a part of it. He acts as if he owns you."

"I think he acts that way about everybody who works for him," she said.

"Want me to leave?" I asked. She shook her head. "Not unless you want to. The worst he can do is fire me and have me blacklisted in a few other clubs around town. I can always get a job, even if it's in another city."

"There's no question about that, honey," I said. "I know a few places in New York City that would hire you in a minute. But as I said, the situation has become a little more complicated. It might not have anything to do with you, unless you know things about him that he wouldn't want you telling me."

"I don't know anything about him except what you hear from other singers and the musicians and the help. Even that I never paid much attention to. When you start working in night clubs you soon learn that most club owners don't come out of Sunday schools."

She looked up from her drink. "Milo, I didn't ask you anything about your self last night. What do you do for a living?"

"I'm an insurance investigator. And this has become more complicated because I'm looking for a former associate of Nick Potti's. I have a feeling that Nick and his friends don't want him found—alive or dead."

Senate Returns to Washington

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was scheduled to return to Washington today after being hospitalized while on a weekend visit here.

McClellan, 63-year-old chairman of the Senate Rules Committee, was admitted to Blount Memorial Hospital suffering from what his Washington office termed a "flareup of a chronic condition."

He was released Sunday. The senator and his wife were here on an annual Memorial Day visit with friends.

First Plane Ride Is Not So Good

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Tommy Peyton, 5, described his first airplane ride Sunday as "not so good."

He, his brother Bobby, 4, and their father, Bob Peyton, 33, Oklahoma City, were on a 1935 bi-plane with pilot Don Ross, 30, and plane owner Tex Devin, 36, when the motor quit.

Ross landed in a wheat field, tearing off the landing gear, shearing a wing and twin-engine propeller. No one was hurt, said Bobby.

"I'm not going to fly any more."

Doing Laundry Soon Helps Beachwear Last Longer

When the family arrives home after a splashing good time at the beach or pool, Mother still has a few chores to do before she can relax with the rest of the crew. There's a sunburn or two to medicate, sand to be emptied from shoes, and dinner to fix.

Another task, often overlooked in the rush, is laundering the swim clothes. According to the Maytag Home Laundry center, swimwear and other beach apparel should be washed as soon as possible after each wearing to prevent damage from sand, salt water, chlorine and sunken lotion. This is one problem that can be taken care of while dinner is cooking—your automatic washer and dryer will do the work.

Colorfast swimsuits, T-shirts and playclothes can be laundered in the washer with warm water, a laundry detergent and gentle agitation. They can all be dryer-dried, too. Just be sure these items containing rubber elastic, plastic stays, or wool are removed while still damp. Items containing foam rubber should not be dryer-dried.

Suntan lotion, frequently splashed on suits, often clings to synthetics. Pre-treat these stains before washing by rubbing the stained area with liquid detergent. It's a good idea to check beach towels for these stains, too, and to pretreat and wash them as soon as possible.

Brightly colored towels, terry beach robes, and even beach bags will keep their colors longer if you launder them in cold water. Maytag experts say. They can all be dryer-dried, but be sure you remove any beach bags with plastic linings or trim while damp.

With proper treatment, your family's beachwear will stay bright for many summers. Your automatic washer and dryer can help make your own summer brighter, too, with less work and more time to spend with your family.

Vote Tuesday in California Primary

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—California Republicans choose Tuesday between Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in a presidential primary that highlights a week of feverish political activity in 13 states.

In the California contest, the state's 86 Republican nomination votes are at stake. Goldwater backers think victory would make possible his nomination on the first ballot at the GOP convention, which begins six weeks from today.

Those opposed to the Arizona figure a Rockefeller victory would slow down and perhaps stall Goldwater's drive short of the 655 votes needed for nomination.

As for the New York governor, by week's end he could have more than 200 delegates in his quest for the nomination—providing he beats Goldwater in the winner-take-all California contest and picks up a majority of the 82 district delegates, as expected, in Tuesday's New York primary.

Be Careful at Those Jam Sessions

By PHILIP J. KEUPER

NEW YORK (AP)—The next time you go to a charity dance or an amateur jazz session, don't be too critical of the music. The trombone player could be your boss.

The piano player could be a surgeon, the clarinet player an engineer and the trumpet player a Wall Street broker.

Corporation executives and other business and professional men today make up a growing share of the 23 million adult Americans who play musical instruments, says the American Music Conference. The main reason: Relaxation.

Amateur musical groups range from the Chicago Business Men's Orchestra, founded in 1921 by an amateur boxer who liked to play the string bass to the Powerhouse Five.

Plus Many, a New York City area dixieland jazz group headed by John G. Powers, president of Prentice-Hall Inc., a large publishing firm.

To Powers and many other executives, playing a musical instrument is the best way to leave office worries behind.

"When we get going everything else is forgotten," Powers says. "In fact, the question is not when our band will play, but when it will stop."

Like most businessmen who double as amateur musicians, Powers learned to play an instrument as a youngster. A clarinet and saxophone player, he helped put himself through college and law school playing at dances. Unlike most businessmen, he kept on playing.

"Almost everywhere we play," he says, "businessmen come up and say: 'Gosh, I envy you fellows so much. I'm going to get my horn out of the closet and start playing again.' And they do, too."

The Powerhouse Five Plus Many, like most businessmen groups, plays chiefly for charity functions.

Another businessmen's Dixieland jazz group calls itself The Oldest Permanent Floating Jazz Band East of the Mississippi. It was started 12 years ago and its members include a Wall Street lawyer, a Wall Street broker and advertising executives.

son were e picked at a state Democratic convention Sunday. It ended a 12-year division between factions led by Morrison and outgoing national committeeman Bernard J. Boyle, who did not seek re-election.

States pledged to Rockefeller and Goldwater are the only ones on the California ballot, and write-in votes are not permitted.

In New York, 20 delegate candidates are backing the senator and five others are uncommitted. But Rockefeller is expected to win about 70 of them. Ten at-large delegates will be chosen later by the state GOP committee.

Also to be elected Tuesday are 14 GOP delegates in South Dakota.

Over the weekend, Goldwater picked off Mississippi's 13 GOP delegates—as expected.

Some 260 Republican delegates will be named this week including 10 at-large in the Nebraska state convention today.

Disavows 2 States of Candidates

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has disavowed in writing two states of candidates for delegates to the Democratic National Convention pledged to support him for the vice presidential nomination.

Kennedy, reiterating his support of President Johnson for election, said convention delegates should await Johnson's advice before committing themselves on a running mate.

Kennedy's position was more emphatic than his previous efforts to head off any campaign to get the vice presidential nomination for him.

Edward N. Costikyan, New York County (Manhattan) Democratic leader, made public Sunday this telegram from Kennedy:

"I would like to re-emphasize that the two states of national convention delegates, running in your county in the June 2nd primary as pledged to me for the vice-presidential nomination mounted their campaign without my knowledge and are running without my approval.

"As I have already indicated to the press, I have discouraged all efforts of this kind. I support President Johnson and his program and believe that the delegates to the national convention should await his advice before committing themselves to one or another of his potential running mates."

The candidates pledged to Kennedy in Tuesday's primary also back Johnson.

Scene of D-Day Landing Is Revisited

Editor's Note—On D-Day plus six, Harvey Hudson, then a 1st lieutenant with an artillery battalion, landed on Omaha Beach in the Allied invasion of Nazi-held Europe. Now a member of The Associated Press staff in Paris, he revisits the scenes of battle.

By HARVEY HUDSON

OMAHA A BEACH. Normandy (AP)—D-day veterans who make the sentimental trek to the Normandy invasion beaches are gripped by nostalgia and sorrow and thankfulness that they survived. Sometimes they withdraw in confusion, unable to recognize places that once had a life or death importance. Thousands of American, Canadian, British or French soldiers who took part in the bloody assault on the beaches June 6, 1944, revisit the scene each year. Hundreds are expected to roam over the area, digging deeply into their memories, for the 20th anniversary celebrations this year. Bernard Rippey, Richmond, Calif., recalling his first trip back to the spot where he landed by glider, said, "The emotional experience really grabbed me. I could almost smell the powder."

Jack Tollerday, Newton, Kan., who landed by parachute, said, "Memory and present-day reality make a startling contrast. It was a three-ring circus when we landed, with ack-ack fire, planes falling, and Germans scattering like chickens. Now it seems odd to see a farmer calmly hoeing his field."

The savage scar of war still disfigure the beaches. Telltale debris of battle litters the sand. Bathers and fishermen sauntering along the beaches ignore the rusty cables, twisted bits of metal and contorted sections of steel roadway matted. Despite cleanup efforts, enough relics remain to set Utah, Omaha, Gold, June and Sword beaches permanently apart from such stretches of sand as Miami, Newport or Waikiki that have known only peace.

Massive pillboxes dot the coastline. From some the ugly snouts of rusted 88mm German guns still point seaward. Hitler boasted his Third Reich would endure 1,000 years. The pillboxes — impossible to destroy without damaging nearby buildings, and with no commercial salvage value—could conceivably live out the full term of the fallen dictator's shattered dream.

But the personal landmarks that set the scene apart for most soldiers are gone. Wrecked landing craft on the beaches have been removed. Bombed houses have been razed and new ones appear in their places. Church steeples have been restored, broken walls repaired. The myriad signs of a moving army have disappeared. Two exit roads backed through the bluff at Omaha Beach are now only cowpaths.

Four museums have been established to honor the heroism of June 6, 1944. French residents of the area have a lively smile and a warm handshake for any old soldiers who return.

The Allied invasion plan called for night parachute drops by the British at the eastern end of the 60-mile invasion front, and by Americans at the base of the Cherbourg Peninsula at the west. In between, ground forces were to come ashore at dawn at the five designated beaches.

An Election Notice
Keystone Lodge No. 43 F. & A.M. Prince Affiliate will hold its annual election of officers for 1964-65, Tuesday 8 p.m. Very imperative for all to be there. H.L. Washington, Worshipful Master. R.D. Hicks, Secretary.

Danish Foods Delightful for Variety

Backyard chefs bored of franks and burgers can take a few food tips from the Danes to create international specialties that will delight friends and family. Danish cookery, which is not all Smorgasbord, can be easily prepared on an American charcoal grill.

Dishes like Aertteroulader (pea and beef cakes), Finker (hash), Lobeskovs (poor man's dinner), and Morbrad Som Bof (pork steak), are just a few of the recipes to be found in a new food booklet entitled "Victuals for Vikings" being offered by Carlsberg Agency.

The 31-page colorfully prepared booklet, according to its author, "Tommy," contains some of the temptations of the table to which Danes and those who have married Danes are continually exposed. Should readers succumb to any of the recipes they will do so in the company of 4,500,000 Danes.

If you would like a free copy, just send 25 cents to cover handling and postage to "Victuals for Vikings," Carlsberg Breweries, Box 672, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y.

Sportsman's aid is this new Outdoor Towel by Morgan-Jones that has strap which attaches to belt so towel is always available to keep hands dry. Of terry cloth, over-size towel is available in a wide range of colors.

Comfort Is Essential to Walking

Families planning to do a lot of walking this summer, say on a visit to the New York World's Fair, will enjoy it more if they follow a few tips from the Chairman of the National Foot Health Council, Dr. Joseph Lelyveld.

The official adviser of the Boston Athletic Association and a consultant on foot care for President Johnson's National Youth Fitness program has these tips: "No matter how strong the heart and lungs, legs are doomed to slow down and feel tired early unless the feet have been outfitted, cared for and conditioned properly."

"Select shoes that will help, not handicap, the normal action of the feet," he says. "They should be generous in width and length, made of a light leather and bend easily at the ball of the foot."

"Shoes should never be worn without socks. This habit invites blisters and offers a strong potential for fungus infections," Dr. Lelyveld warns.

"Socks should be of a generous size, too, at least a half inch longer than the longest toe. For an active foot, an absorbent mercerized cotton sock is essential. Durable cotton, made by the leading American cotton producers has the highest rate of absorbency and can be found in many brands of socks sold everywhere."

Games Can Amuse Tots Traveling

When a family starts off on a holiday, their check list should include something to keep the youngsters happy—just as important for a pleasant trip as a well-running car.

There is hardly a parent, no matter how placid or permissive, that hasn't been annoyed when the children on the back seat start bickering and start their endless round of "When do we stop?" "I'm hungry," "I got a headache," "Jim's bothering me," or "Mary's pinching." "I'm thirsty."

There are many games that can be played while driving to keep the children occupied. Playing detective by looking for certain words, on billboards numbers on license plates, certain types of stores — is fun, with the one who first sees either the word, numbers or store the winner. But even games, when prolonged, lose their interest.

Fortunately, there are items now available that will keep a restless youngster happier, quieter, and cleaner than giving them an ice cream cone.

One new interesting product is the Twinko Wipe Away coloring cloth. This is a durable, genuine vinyl cloth, card table size, with permanent outlines of the characters children love most, as well as numbers and letters. There are wild west circus scenes, and a variety of others as well as Barbie, Ken and Midge clothes to color. Non-toxic Wipe Away crayons come with the cloth.

After coloring, the colors are easily wiped away with either a dry tissue or a cloth, and the fun begins all over again. Best of all, as many as six youngsters can color at the same time, so this should be a boon for the population explosion family.

circulation they follow a tried-and-true formula. First, they put in a reducing diet. If that doesn't do it, they tell the 16 ways to "beast" a girl's hair. "And if that doesn't work they can always attack the schools."

Mrs. Grant leveled the same criticism at the publishers of "When they want to increase many current books."

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The California primary election campaign has reached its feverish final day and no one is more pleased with the fuss that has stirred up than Mort Sahl.

Such events are grist for his politician-grinding mill. Nightly at the Interlude on the Sunset Strip he has been dropping such remarks as:

"Rockefeller is saying, 'If elected, I promise to become a Republican.' President Johnson spent 30 years in politics and recently went into government. 'If Gov. Seranton gets nominated, there is one question he will be asked: Who are you?'"

Just turned 37, Sahl might already be considered the grand old man of the iconoclastic comedians. Sharp-nosed, with a tongue like a stainless-steel razor, he pioneered the field a decade ago. In his wake has come a myriad of other social commentators.

It wasn't easy at the start, Sahl admits.

"I was a strange face with a strange style," he remarked. "I said things that people didn't want to hear."

"I also had a problem of education. The audience didn't know the intricacies of politics and I had to stick to recognizable topics. Kennedy changed that. He made so many things about government popular that it made my work easier."

"Still, there are limitations. You can't get a laugh with Hubert Humphrey; they don't know who he is. Even Adlai Stevenson doesn't evoke any response. And there's no reaction to Bobby Kennedy, which is something President Johnson made note of."

"I've been laying off Goldwater because he's too easy a target. His position is defined; all you have to do is trigger the mechanism and it explodes—witness all the 19th century jokes the other fellows are using."

State-owned toll bridges became toll free in 1938.

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was hospitalized over the weekend but he was to return to Washington today.

An aide said only that McClellan, 68, suffered from a "flareup of a chronic condition." He was released from Blount Memorial Hospital in Maryville Sunday.

MOSCOW (AP)—Harold Wilson, leader of the British Labor party, had a lengthy conference today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Wilson, who will be Britain's next prime minister if Labor wins the fall elections, arrived in Moscow Sunday night for a four-day visit.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther says selective buying might be a good weapon to gain better jobs for Negroes, and the auto industry might be a good place to start.

King, chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Sunday he will call a nationwide conference of civil rights leaders on the subject next fall.

ILFRACOMBE, England (AP)

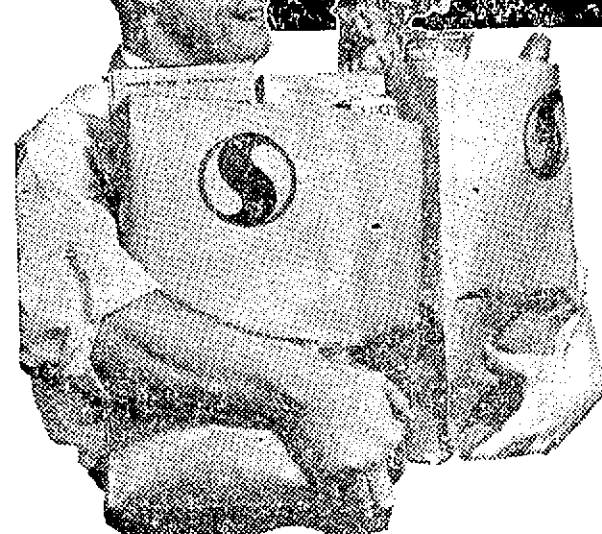

Prime Minister Douglas-Home says Communists know that nuclear war is out of the question because they too would be destroyed, but they are "trying under cover of treaties and arrangements to subvert other parts of the world."

Douglas-Home is making a whistle-stop political tour of the west of England.

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito and his wife, Jovanka, left Belgrade today for a six-day visit to Finland.

At the end of the Spanish and French periods in 1803, Arkansas was mostly an Indian hunting land. Fewer than a thousand white people lived here.
